THE SAANICH SHOW.

A Large Gathering of People and a Successful Exhibition.

Visit of His Excellency and Party—Address and Reply.

The exhibition of the Saanich Agricultural Society yesterday is pronounced by its officers, and those who have attended the annual shows held under this society's auspices for many years past, to have been the best in almost every particular that they have ever witnessed. The weather was favorable and a very large number of visitors were present from Victoria, among them members of the local government, members of the House of Commons, and very many of our most prominent citizens. The show, however, has become too large to be held in one day, and so large was the number of entries, or so slow were the exhibitors in making them, that this task was not completed before 2 p. m. It was therefore unavoidable that all the prizes should not be awarded until a late hour in the afternoon, or that the doors of the building were kept closed until 3:30 p. m. The directors will probably find, if this increase continues, that it will be absolutely necessary to devote as by that means justice will be done to themselves, to the exhibitors and the constantly increasing crowds that attend their annual gatherings. The show was a fine one, and there were heard frequent comparisons with the late provincial exhibition at New Westminster, all of which were favorable to the Saanich gathering.

INSIDE OF THE HALL

there was a marked improvement over last year. Roots, fruit, grain, and ladies' work, were all numerously represented, and a superior quality. In potatoes alone there were 23 entries, of turnips 18, carrots 11, and so on through the list. They were an evidence of the productiveness of the soil and its special adaptability to the growth of this class of products. Grains of all kinds were present in abundance—21 entries in wheat and 25 in oats and other descriptions in proportion. Dairy products, not the least important, were also of a choice quality; in butter there were about 20 entries, although in cheese there was but one competitor. The display of fruit, especially apples, was very large; probably the best feature of the show. The ladies' department was also full, and contained numerous specimens of the handicraft and refined taste of the Saanich ladies. In embroidering there were 18 competitors, quilts 7, woollen crochet 11, and so on.

OUTSIDE THE HALL,

speaking generally, the same remarks will apply. The exhibition of horses was very good; of cattle, large, but with the exception of a few thorough-breds, not of remarkable excellence. The poultry display, containing as it did, Mr. Perrin's splendid collection of fowl, was complete; as was also the show of sheep. Hogs were fairly represented.

THE VICE REGAL PARTY,

comprising His Excellency, the Governor-General, Lord Melgund, Lieut. Gov. Cornwall, Mrs. and Miss Cornwall arrived about half-past twelve, and were received and courteously shown through the building by Mr. John, president, and Mr. G. A. McTavish, M. P. P., secretary. A considerable time was spent in carefully scrutinizing the exhibits, and Lord Lansdowne frequently expressed his admiration at the splendid display made in roots, fruits and grains. After a splendid luncheon, prepared by Mrs. McTavish, the party returned to the platform in front of the hall, when Mr. E. John presented the following:

ADDRESS.

To His Excellency, the Most Honorable the Marquis of Lansdowne, G. C. M. G., Governor-General of Canada:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY.—We, the loyal inhabitants of Saanich, have much pleasure in welcoming the Governor-General of Canada as the representative of her gracious majesty the Queen. We feel proud that your Excellency should have honored our agricultural show with your presence, and we feel the more elated as this is the first occasion on which the Governor-General of Canada has been present at our agricultural exhibition. We do not pretend, this being an entirely local exhibition, to vie with large shows of a similar character elsewhere, but according to our means and intelligence we cultivate the land to the best of our ability, and the produce is now laid before your Excellency, and we believe will compare favorably with that of any other district in Canada.

Our district contains but a few hundred people, we do not pretend to have the great and vast prairies of the Northwest, but whatever lands we have are of a fertile character. Although our agricultural society is intended for the purpose of fostering agricultural pursuits, still we may look about us and seeing the bays, inlets and harbors around our peninsula and along the coast, we feel that if the Canadian government would foster the cultivation of the seas a large amount of wealth would be added to the province and considerable profit to the Dominion at large.

Now that the gigantic, grand and stupendous undertaking of the Canadian Pacific railway approaches so near its completion, we hope to see more shell and other fish new to our seas, rivers and lakes imported, and their cultivation encouraged by the federal authorities.

We must beg to state that the agricultural society is not a political, but simply an industrial organization, and as such, with the warmest feelings of respect, we greet your Excellency and wish you at the same time health and strength and success in your arduous duties of the Dominion.

HIS EXCELLENCY REPLIES.

Lord Lansdowne thanked the officers of the society, in the Queen's name, for the loyal expressions contained in the address, and said that he felt quite sure that in respect for the devotion to Her Majesty the people here were one with the whole empire. It afforded him extreme pleasure in meeting them here to-day. The agricultural class was essential to the well-being of the community—essential to the solidity of the human family, and he was glad to know that there was here a class of that kind. In British Columbia there was a great variety of soil and climate, and her people could not employ their time more profitably than in finding out the best breeds of cattle and the best variety of grains and vegetables adapted to the country. It had afforded him great pleasure in seeing the variety of products on exhibition, as it indicated the capabilities of the district and the progress it was making. With respect to the desire expressed for the development of the marine industries of this province, he had no doubt they would play an important part in the future prosperity of the province, and he believed, if it were possible, the Dominion Government would encourage them; but he must tell them frankly that they would have to look to the pluck and perseverance of the people themselves, rather than to any fostering care from government. He considered himself fortunate in being the first Governor-General to come to Saanich, but expected that he would not be the last. Now that we have the railway completed there will be a great influx of visitors attracted thither by the agreeable climate and grand scenery of the Pacific province. He wished them all success and prosperity; as one who had done a little farming himself, he was happy to meet with farmers to observe the progress they were making in their calling. (Cheers.)

President John proposed three cheers for the Governor-General, three for the Lieut.-Governor and three for Miss Cornwall, which were heartily responded to. The party then proceeded to view the stock on the ground, and after a thorough inspection they resumed their carriages and returned to the city.

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS.

In poultry, Mr. Geo Perrin was the largest exhibitor. His birds, however, were entered principally for exhibition by special request, and not for competition.

Messrs S Sandover and Capt. Revely were owners of the best cattle on the ground. The Jersey bull and cow shown by the latter and the beautiful little cow by the former, were by far the purest bred and most valuable cattle on exhibition.

In Saanich district there are several herds of stock superior to those now brought to the show, but they are owned by farmers living at some distance away, and the trouble of bringing them, the owners think, is scarcely compensated by the prizes won or the honors carried off.

The show of horses would have done credit to many places that pride themselves on the superior excellence in this line. Mrs. Turgoose's black stallion captured the first prize, the third time it has carried off that honor this year. A pair of black mares and a saddle mare, owned by the same exhibitor, were also winners of first honors. Mr. Tod's Percheron, and Mr. Parver's beautiful stallion, were fine specimens of horse flesh, and not took first places.

Mr. G. A. McTavish, M. P. P., exhibited a very fine assortment of native seeds, neatly arranged. The variety was very large, and the display was most creditable to that gentleman.

Brackman and Ker, of North Saanich, were as usual, to the front with their fine display of oatmeal. They again took the cake.

Mrs. Turgoose kept "open house" and royally entertained friends and strangers alike at her pleasant home near the exhibition building.

The Queen City band boys drove out, and for a few hours in the afternoon, enhanced the occasion with several selections of their choicest airs. Their visit was highly appreciated.

Mrs. McTavish prepared and served a splendid luncheon to the Governor-General's party, and a number of guests. She did the honors with amiability and discreteness.

The Secretary was courteous and obliging, and evidently possessed of an imperturbable temper. But the "system" requires revision and improvement, so that the awards could be made earlier and the doors be thrown open to the sight-seers about one o'clock.

Some shelves around the building for the display of the roots, &c., would show them off to better advantage, and economize the space of the building.

There was no admission fee to the grounds. The society thus shows its liberality, but it will not be amiss to suggest that a reasonable charge would give a respectable sum of gate money, which could be advantageously used in furthering the objects of the society.

The proceedings were terminated, after the payment of prizes, by a dance in the hall, at which all the young people of the neighborhood, and a number from the city, were in attendance.

MOB LAW IN MONTREAL

Smallpox Rioters have Virtual Possession of the City.

The mob appears to be king in Montreal. It has compelled the health authorities to abandon their branch office in the east end. The Herald asserts that this is a dastardly blow at law and order; it is an admission that the mob is all powerful; it is a concession to mob rule more injurious to the city of Montreal than anything that has yet happened; it is an act in contempt of the wishes and feelings of the supporters of law and order; it is a nullifying of the salutary influence of the display of military strength; it is a direct, absolute and public encouragement to rioters; it is evidence of weakness and incompetency for which it would be difficult to find a parallel.

The Herald then asks, what do the health authorities imagine the people of Montreal to be?

Is the city to be governed in a manner to suit the mob, to please the least intelligent and most disorderly, the most vicious and violent, the rowdies, the loafers and low demagogues; or are the men who made Montreal what it is—the peaceably disposed, the law abiding, the thrifty, the industrious, the energetic and enterprising, the capitalists, the bankers, the manufacturers—to rule what they have created, to feel certain of the possession of what is their own, to retain their property of their own free will and not by the consent of an East End mob? * * * Montreal has suffered immeasurably by the action of the ignorant and the rowdy element. Are we, through our own representatives, to seal our own degradation by abandoning our rights to rioters who are really powerless to accomplish their ends, save through the weakness of the authorities themselves? * * * Is it to be pretended that rioters can traverse miles of our streets, destroying what property they please, menacing whom they please, intimidating and terrifying the weak and defenceless, and that they shall be permitted to successfully accomplish their main purpose of destroying one of the branch Health Offices, while all that is left to the city are bills of damages to pay for property injured and for the calling out of the military? Let us know at once who are for the rioters and who for law and order. Better that the line should be drawn now than when the respectable and law-abiding of the city are in a less advantageous position. If we are to have peace only at the price of kneeling to rioters and demagogues the sooner the well-disposed leave the city the better. But we say this, that if there is any emigrating to be done, the men to emigrate must be those who defy the authorities, outrage the laws and attempt to deprive peaceable citizens of the protection and rights to which they are entitled.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

The Victoria Board of Trade Pay Their Respects.

And Present an Address Which is Felicitously Replied to.

To-day at 12:30 o'clock a deputation of the Board of Trade proceeded in carriages to Government House, and there met the Governor-General. The party consisted of Mr. J. H. Todd, president; Mr. E. C. Baker, M. P., Vice-President; Mr. Wm. Montieth, secretary, and Messrs. J. Davies, R. T. Williams, M. W. Waitt, Thos. Earle, S. J. Pitts, Jos. Fell, D. W. Higgins, H. F. Heisterman, Frank Barnard, M. T. Johnson, Roderick Finlayson, A. Cowan, and Wm. T. Drake. After the members had been severally introduced to His Excellency by Mr. Baker, M. P., Mr. J. H. Todd, president of the Board, read the following

ADDRESS.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY:

We, the members of the British Columbia Board of Trade, loyal and loving subjects of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen, desire to tender your Excellency, as Her Majesty's representative, a truly loyal and cordial welcome to the chief city and capital of the Pacific Province of the Dominion of Canada.

Your Excellency is the third Vice-Regal representative who has visited British Columbia since the province became the sixth integrant of the Canadian Confederation, and we are pleased and proud to be in a position to say that, as a people, we are in a more prosperous and contented condition than either of your illustrious predecessors found us.

A peculiar interest attaches to Your Excellency's advent among us, in view of the great transcontinental railway which passes entirely through British territory, in a continuous and unbroken line, from ocean to ocean, being now nearly completed, thus affording Your Excellency the privilege of being the first Governor-General to pass over the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway and witnessing the stupendous obstacles which energy, enterprise and capital, judiciously directed, have overcome, and opening a country whose boundless resources Your Excellency has doubtless recognized and appreciated in your recent passage across the continent.

The completion of the Canadian Transcontinental Railway has made Confederation of the British possessions of North America a REALITY; whereas before it was merely a matter of POLITICAL SENTIMENT; and we feel assured that a great and glorious destiny awaits us as a united Canadian people.

Within the past year two other important public works have been vigorously prosecuted, and are also rapidly drawing towards completion, viz.: the Esquimalt and Nanaimo railway and the Esquimalt Graving Dock. These works, when finished, will unquestionably add very materially to the wealth and commerce of the Province; the growing importance of which would seem to suggest the immediate adoption of an efficient system of fortification, so that the valuable interests (Imperial, Dominion, and Provincial) may be assured of adequate protection, in the event of Great Britain being involved in war.

The necessity of an Insolvency Law, which would secure to creditors a fair and equitable distribution of the assets of debtors, removing the unsatisfactory and hurtful system of preferential creditors, and preventing the concealment of effects, is daily becoming more apparent, and this Board trusts that a comprehensive and effective measure may shortly be passed by the Federal Parliament.

The importance of fostering and protecting a great staple industry of the province, viz.: salmon, fishing and packing, must have occurred to your Excellency on your passage through the mainland of British Columbia; and this Board feels that it cannot too earnestly direct the attention of your Excellency's constitutional advisers to the condition of the recently established Government hatchery on the Coquitlam river; and would suggest an early reform in the method of operating that institution.

Notwithstanding frequent and protracted delays in the past, the Board would take the opportunity of congratulating Your Excellency's government upon the improved condition of telegraphic communication within this province, and the satisfactory results which have been attained by the laying of a submarine cable, connecting Vancouver Island with the opposite shore of the Straits of Fuca.

We observe with feelings of satisfaction, that tenders have been invited for the removal of a dangerous obstruction to the navigation of Victoria Harbor—viz., the Dredger Rock. And it is to be hoped that in view of the constant increase in the shipping business of the port, all other such obstacles may be speedily and effectually dealt with, so that vessels may enter and clear with the least possible risk of danger or delay.

The harbors of Nanaimo and Comox, as also the Fraser and other important rivers of this province, are in equal need of immediate and extensive improvements, to adapt them for the exigencies of that commerce for which, by nature, they are so admirably fitted.

The members of this Board, whilst regretting that they should have been deprived of the pleasure of extending a respectful and cordial welcome to Lady Lansdowne, venture to express the hope that in the near future they may be afforded an opportunity of so doing.

In conclusion we trust that Your Excellency may thoroughly enjoy your visit, and long retain pleasant recollections of our province, its climate and its people.

Again tendering our expressions of loyalty and devotion to Her Majesty and to Your Excellency as Her Majesty's representative, we are Your Excellency's most obedient and humble servants.

Signed on behalf of the B. C. Board of Trade, at the city of Victoria, this 9th day of October, 1885.

J. H. TODD,

President.

WM. MONTIETH,

Secretary.

HIS EXCELLENCY'S REPLY.

His Excellency, in reply, spoke substantially as follows:

MR. TODD AND GENTLEMEN:—I have much pleasure in accepting the welcome which you are good enough to tender me on the part of the members of the Board of Trade of British Columbia, and I can assure you it gives me very great satisfaction to learn that you are able to speak of those classes of the community whom you more especially represent as having made a distinct advance in contentment and general prosperity.

I esteem myself especially fortunate in having been able to arrive here by a line of railway now on the very eve of completion, by which you are henceforth to be united to your fellow subjects on the other side of the great mountain ranges which have till now divided you from the rest of the Dominion; and I join with you in anticipating the greatest advantages, material and political, from the establishment of a closer communication between your province and those which lie to the east of it.

Sir, you have referred to two very important works, which are now proceeding in this neighborhood. I hope during the next few days to have an opportunity of visiting both of these. The railway by which access will be obtained to the extensive coal fields of Nanaimo, as well as the graving dock now in process of construction at Esquimalt, are matters of Imperial as well as of local interest. I can assure you that the question of the defences of this portion of the seaboard of the Dominion is one which will not escape the attention either of the Imperial or the Dominion governments. The establishment of a battery of Dominion artillery and a school of gunnery in this neighborhood is a practical recognition on the part of the latter of the responsibility which attaches to it.

I shall make it my business to bring before the attention of the government the statement which you have made with regard to the consequences resulting from the absence of legislation in regard to insolvency. The matter is one of the utmost importance, and I may mention that the unfortunate results of the present condition have been brought to my attention in other quarters.

I shall not fail to take note of your salmon fisheries and of the improvements needed in order to facilitate the safe entrance of vessels into the port of Victoria and the other important harbors of the province. These are matters in regard to which I will lay the views which you have expressed before the government at Ottawa.

I have, in conclusion, to thank you for the wish which you have been good enough to express that my visit may be an enjoyable one, and to assure you that I shall carry away with me the pleasantest impressions of your Province and the most agreeable recollection of the manner in which I have been received by your people.

Permit me to add that I am glad to have had an opportunity of meeting you and from hearing from you an authoritative statement upon matters with which you are specially conversant, and which are certainly of the utmost practical importance to this portion of the Dominion.

At the conclusion of His Excellency's reply, the deputation withdrew, the Governor cordially shaking each gentleman by the hand as he passed out.

A GIGANTIC WORK.

In the current number of the Century there appears an exceedingly cleverly written article from the pen of Principal GRANT, of Queen's College, Ont., from which we make the following extracts:

What tempted the people of Canada to undertake so gigantic a work as the Canadian Pacific Railway? The difficulties in the way were great, unprecedented, unknown. Had they been known before hand, the task would not have been attempted. We were under the inspiration of a national idea and went forward. We were determined to be something more than a fortuitous collocation of provinces. That the difficulties were faced and overcome as they emerged, great temptations to halt or retreat being quietly set aside, proves that we, like our neighbors and progenitors, are not easily discouraged. Our ultimate destiny will be none the worse because we have—not unwillingly—made sacrifices in order to make ourselves a nation.

Roughly speaking, the new country through which the great railway runs consists of three sections—about a thousand miles of forest from the Upper Ottawa to the Red River of the North; then a thousand miles of alluvial; and then five or six hundred miles of mountains, from the first chain of the Rockies, to where the waters of the Pacific are sheltered by the breakwater of Vancouver Island. The total length of the line from Montreal to the Pacific terminus is 2,895 miles. The first section was long considered impracticable for a railway, and the expense of construction has been enormous. The rocks at the back of Lake Superior are the oldest known to men of science and the toughest known to engineers. But dynamite, if there be enough of it, can do anything. This part of the line was opened last spring most dramatically, it being used before actual completion to transport our militia to put down the half-breed and Indian rising in the Northwest. No amount of champagne drinking and, of driving last spikes of gold could have called the attention of the country so emphatically to its importance. The second section runs through what promises to be the great granary of the world. The third is being pushed across a sea of mountains. Thousands of navvies of all nationalities are swarming in the valley of the Columbia, and thousands of Chinese are working on the grade easterly. When this section is completed, and the shortest of all trans-continental railways opened for traffic from ocean to ocean, Canada will have attained to unification, so far as links of steel can unify.

The work is so completely a political necessity that—along with the Intercolonial Railway, which binds the Atlantic provinces to old Canada—it may be called the symbol of our natural existence. Whether it will pay the company financially or not is a question on which experts differ. That it will develop the country, and thus at any rate pay indirectly, seems to me unquestionable.

The Intercolonial was run for a time at a cost to the Dominion of over half a million dollars annually. It now pays its way; and though shorter through lines are to be built, the increasing local traffic, the best indication of the real value of the road to the country, will keep it running. So, too, the first section of the Canadian Pacific pierces a wilderness that wise men said would not furnish business to pay for greasing the sleighs, but it gets through enough in the shape of lumber alone to pay for the wheels as well as the grease. It is revolutionizing the mode of lumber transportation on the upper Ottawa and to the West. The lumber kings find that time is money. It is more profitable to send on logs to market by rail than to continue the tedious plan of floating them, from the banks of far-away lakes and nameless streams in the interior, down countless rapids and slides to unbroken waterways. The danger now is that our timber limits, which constitute an essential part of the national capital, may be exhausted within a measurable time. With regard to the rugged Laurentian regions to the north of Lake Superior, unexplored as yet by men of science, there are grounds for believing that they will turn out to be as rich in mineral wealth as the southern shores of the lake, and no business pays a railway so well as that which a mining community supplies. Then, the fertile plains of the Northwest are certain to yield harvests that will tax to the utmost the carrying capacity of branch as well as trunk lines.

These plains extend for eight hundred miles west of Winnipeg. Originally a north-western instead of a western route from Winnipeg had been chosen for the railway, because every one said that the only "fertile belt" was in that direction. The "belt," or rainbow, of fertile land, swept semicirculanly round a supposed great wedge of the American desert. But the company came to the conclusion that the plains west of Winnipeg had been belied, and that the rainfall was sufficient for the growth of cereals or root crops. Singularly enough, their faith has been vindicated; it turns out that we have no desert. This fact is a physical reality of the greatest importance with regard to the area in the Northwest available for settlement. The area is now known to be practically illimitable. The waves of a great human sea will in a short time roll steadily on, without breaks, from the boundary line to the prairies of the mighty Peace river. That new Northwest of ours will, a century hence, have fifty millions of people, and they will raise enough to feed themselves and the rest of the world, if need be.

CANADA'S FUTURE.

The Westminster Review, which, as everyone knows, is one of the very ablest of the higher class magazines of London, is publishing a series of articles on the colonial empire of Great Britain, and has recently dealt with Canada. In speaking of the ignorance, amongst Englishmen, of the colonies, the Review mentions the circumstances,—and, of course, the average Englishman's ignorance of it,—that Sydney, Melbourne and Montreal are among the twenty most populous cities in the Empire, and that Toronto and Adelaide are found in the next fifteen. The cost of the colonies of America and Australasia to Great Britain in naval and military expenditure is about two millions sterling per annum, and her trade with them amounted in 1883 to £189,080,000, as compared with the £543,246,000 with all foreign nations. Of the emigrants from Great Britain and Ireland between 1853 and 1884 inclusive numbering about 5,648,000 in all, 3,730,000 went to the United States, 1,111,000 to Australasia, 576,000 to British America, and 240,000 to other places. The Westminster thinks hopefully of our present constitution, but indicates difficulty in solving the race question. Of the population of the Dominion the figures are given as, English and Scotch, 1,590,000; French, 1,300,000; Irish, 950,000; German and Dutch, 285,000; and Indian, 110,000. The reviewer thinks that confederation has in every respect more than justified the hopes and efforts of those who labored to effect its consummation, and refers to the extraordinary growth of Canadian industries. He cites, amongst other things, the increase in the export of cheese, which has risen from 5,800,000 pounds in 1870 to 56,000,000 in 1883. The Westminster finds fault with the existence of three separate legislatures for the Maritime Provinces, but approves highly of our municipal system and speaks well of the militia and their work in the Northwest. No Canadian ever speaks in such glowing terms of the future of the Northwest as those employed by the writer in Westminster Review—the locality, as he says, of Canada's future greatness, and he pictures a degree of traffic by the Hudson Bay route that at present looks less probable than some would wish. The more of those kind of reviewers that make their appearance and send copies of their books to falterers in Canada, the better.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

SIR EDWARD THORNTON, long British Minister at Washington, is to be raised to the peerage.

PROFESSOR FRIAR told the British Association the other day that in the matter of butter and cheese making Canada is far ahead of the Mother Country. A similar story was told to the cheese-makers of New York during the summer.

A good many shrewd Canadian politicians anticipate that at no distant date the temperance agitator will become in this country what he is already in the United States—an aggressive irrepressible, who, while generally incapable of doing much politically for himself, is always capable of being a stumbling block in the path of the regular party leaders. It is an old story, that of the feud between the Republicans and the prohibitionists, which was one of the chief factors in the defeat of BLAINE. The same element again threatens Republican ascendancy in New York State. MR. DAVENPORT, the head of the Republican ticket, is also the head of a large wine company, and therefore objectionable to the cold water men, who must run a ticket of their own, because the Democratic decline to repudiate the liquor interest. This complication invests the campaign with interest for Canadians, because of the probability that we shall have the liquor question with us in our next general election.

IMMIGRATION.

PARTIES WISHING TO BRING OUT their friends from Europe, Canada and the States, will save money by purchasing tickets here.

IN LUCK AT LAST.

BY WALTER BESANT.

CHAPTER VI.

COUSIN CLARA.

That man who spends his days in painting a girl's portrait, in talking to her, in gazing upon the unfinished portrait when she is not with him, and occupies his thoughts during the watches of the night in thinking about her, is perilously near to taking the last and fatal step. Flight for such a man is the only thing left, and he so seldom thinks of flight until it is too late.

Arnold was at this point.

"I am possessed by this girl," he might have said had he put his thoughts into words. "I am haunted by her eyes; her voice lingers on my ears; I dream of her face; the touch of her fingers is like the touch of an electric battery." What symptoms are these, so common that one is almost ashamed to write them down, but the infallible symptoms of love! And yet he hesitated, not because he doubted himself any longer, but because he was not independent, and such an engagement might deprive him at one stroke of all that he possessed. Might? It certainly would. Yes; the new and beautiful studio, all the things in it, all his prospects for the future, would have to be given up. "She is worth more than that," said Arnold, "and I should find work somehow. But yet to plunge her into poverty—and to make Clara the most unhappy of women!"

The reason why Clara would be made the most unhappy of women was that Clara was his cousin and his benefactor, to whom he owed everything. She was the kindest of patrons, and she liked nothing so much as the lavishing upon her ward everything that he could desire. But she also, unfortunately, illustrated the truth of Chaucer's teaching, in that she lived power more than anything else, and had already married out Arnold's life for him.

This was his custom to call upon her daily, to use her house as his own. When they were separated they wrote to each other every day; the relations between them were of the most intimate and affectionate kind. He advised in all her affairs, while she directed him; it was understood that he was her heir, and though she was not more than five-and-forty or so, and had, apparently, a long life still before her, so that the succession was distant, the prospect gave him importance. She had been out of town, and perhaps the fact of a new acquaintance with so obscure a person as a simple tutor by correspondence seemed to Arnold not worth mentioning. At all events, he had not mentioned it in his daily letters.

And now she was coming home; she was actually arrived; he would see her that evening. Her last letter was lying before him.

"I parted from dear Stella yesterday. She goes to stay with the Essex Mainwarings for a month; after that, I hope that she will give me a long visit. I do not know where one could find a sweeter girl, or one more eminently calculated to make a man happy. Beautiful, strictly speaking, she is not, perhaps; but of excellent connections, not without a portion, young, clever and ambitious. With such a wife, my dear Arnold, a man may aspire to anything."

"To anything," repeated Arnold; "what is her notion of anything? She has arrived by this time." He looked at his watch and found it was past five. "I ought to have been at the station to meet her. I must go round and see her, and I must dine with her to-night." He sighed heavily. "It would be much pleasanter to spend the evening with Iris."

Then a carriage stopped at his door. It was his cousin, and the next minute he was receiving and giving the kiss of welcome. For his own part, he felt guilty, because he could put so little heart into that kiss, compared with all previous embraces. She was a stout, hearty little woman, who could never have been in the least beautiful, even when she was young. Now on the middle line, between forty and fifty, she looked as if her face had been chopped out of the marble by a rude but determined artist, one who knew what he wanted and would tolerate no conventional work. So that her face, at all events, was if not unique, at least unlike any other face one had ever seen. Most faces, we know, can be reduced to certain general types—even Iris's face might be classified—while of yours, my brother, there are no doubt multitudes. Miss Holland, however, had good eyes—bright, clear gray—the eyes of a woman who knows what she wants and means to get it if she can.

"Well, my dear," she said, taking the one comfortable chair in the studio, "I am back again, and I have enjoyed my journey very much; we will have a talk about the travels this evening. You are looking splendid, Arnold!"

"I am very well indeed. And you, Clara? But I need not ask."

"No, I am always well. I told you about dear Stella, did I not? I never had a more delightful companion."

"So glad you liked her."

"If only, Arnold, you would like her too. But I know"—for Arnold changed color—"I know one must not interfere in these matters. But surely one may go so far with a young man as to say, Where is a girl of a million? There is not, Arnold, I declare, her equal anywhere; a cleaner head I never met, or a better educated girl, or one who knows what a man can do, and how he can be helped to do it."

"Think you, Clara," Arnold said coldly; "I dare say I shall discover the young lady's perfections in time."

"Not, I think, without some help. She is not an ordinary girl. You must draw her out, my dear boy."

"I will," he said listlessly. "I will try to draw her out, if you like."

"We talked a great deal of you, Arnold," Clara went on. "I confided to her some of my hopes and ambitions for you; and I am free to confess to you that she has greatly modified all my plans and calculations."

"Oh!" Arnold was interested in this. "But, my dear Clara, I have my profession. I must follow my profession."

"Bosh—surely! Listen, Arnold, patiently. Anybody can become an artist—anybody, of course, who has the genius. And all kinds of people, gutter people, have the genius."

"The sun," said Arnold, just as if he had been Lala Rox, "shines on all alike."

"Quite so; and there is an immense enthusiasm for art everywhere; but there is no art leader. There is no one man recognized as the man most competent to speak on art of every kind. Think of that. It is Stella's idea entirely. This man, when he is found, will sway enormous authority; he will become, if he has a wife who is assist him, an

"And you want me to become that man?"

"Yes, Arnold. I do not see why you should not become that man. Cease to think of becoming President of the Royal Academy, yet go on painting; prove your genius, so as to command respect; cultivate the art of public speaking; and look about for a wife who will be your right hand. Think of this seriously. This is only a rough sketch; we can fill in the details afterwards. But think of it, Oh, my dear boy! if I were only a man, and five-and-twenty, with such a chance before me! What a glorious career is yours, if you choose! But, of course, you will choose. Good gracious, Arnold! who is that?"

She pointed to the canvas on the easel, where Iris's face was like the tale of Cinderella, half-told.

"It is no one you know, Clara."

"One of your models?" She rose and examined it more closely through her glasses. "The eyes are wonderful, Arnold. They are eyes I know. As if I could ever forget them! They are the same eyes—exactly the same eyes. I have never met with near like them, before. They are the eyes of my poor, lost, betrayed Claude Deere. Where did you pick up this girl, Arnold? Is she a common model?"

"Not at all. She is not a model. She is a young lady who teaches by correspondence. She is my tutor—of course, I have so often talked to you about her—who taught me the science of heraldry, and wrote me such charming letters."

NEGRO LOVE OF MUSIC.

POSSIBILITIES OF MUSICAL POWER WHICH MAY STARTLE THE WORLD.

Invention of Plantation Songs and Melodies—How Colored Converts Regard Secular Music—Strange Zeal—Possibilities of the Future.

[Atlanta Cor. Philadelphia Times.]

"Jerusurlum! Jis listen how de bred kin knock de music outen dat fiddle. Ifress de goodness! If I could sling de tow in dat ar' stile dis here yearth couldn't in no wise hold dis niggur—it 'pears like as how my berry heart is a-leaping."

This remark, made by a young freedman, suggested the thought that in discussing the negro character I had failed to dwell upon their great love of music, which is quite an important element in their make up, and "plantation melodies" is an expression which is very familiar even in northern climes.

The negroes, as a general thing, possess strong and often melodious voices, and, under cultivation, many voices might be developed which would excel those of the whites. To me, it is a matter of surprise that some such incident has not startled the world into an open acknowledgment of the great musical powers lying dormant in the brain recesses of our dusky friends.

They invent, one might say, their own music, and manufacture songs which are devoid of all sense, and yet, when heard at a distance, one is often surprised into the exclamation: "How well they sing!" Their voices are naturally musical, and, if they are not cultivated, they are at least pleasing. This is especially in their religious meetings, when they, with one accord, join their voices in praise to their Divine Maker, that is to His glorification "according to their lights."

Almost every plantation furnishes good banjo and violin players, who execute well on both instruments, without any advantages of instruction or any knowledge of music. One can find, also, in nearly all southern cities, large brass and string bands, conducted entirely by colored performers, who are constantly encored by the whites on all public and festive occasions requiring music.

I was a simple harmonicon, under their manipulation, becomes a little instrument of rare melody and sweetness, and yet this very music which delights their very souls, or rather hearts, is accounted by them a far greater sin than the willful breaking of the ten commandments. No member of any church ever touches a musical instrument of any kind, and to sing aught but a "hymn" is, indeed, a crime of matchless magnitude.

When a banjo or fiddle player "is foun' out by de grace ob de ord," the first act is to burn their instruments amid wild denunciations, he positively refusing to give war or sell a banjo or fiddle "kase dat would be a flinging ob temptation in de way ob yudders, and likewise be aiding ob de debil in his work." Often they have warned me in the most solemn manner that I could "in no wise spec to enter in de glorious kingdom on high if I played on dem instruments ob destruction," and so warped are their moral views that swearing and speaking falsely are small vices compared to music and dancing.

When we consider that for the sake of his religion the negro gives up willingly these pleasures he most enjoys, we can but wish that his zeal could be turned into more enlightened channels.

I have ever before me, in my help, "Dora," a striking evidence of the darkies' love for music. Three times has she repented of her sins and been baptized, and each time she has been turned out of the church for dancing and singing "de songs ob old Satan."

Often when I have been playing a spirited racquet or galop I have seen Dora throw aside any work she might be engaged in and rapidly dance from one side of the yard to the other, keeping perfect time in spite of my quick and frequent changes. A few mornings since, while playing a galop she terrified Jolly Bredren. "I saw through the window my worthy domestic dancing furiously across the yard, brandishing in one hand a gridiron and in the other an enormous dish rag, presenting in her intensely a most grotesque appearance.

As the "dusky wards of our nation" aspire now to many exalted positions, we may yet expect to see some sable damsel holding spellbound a refined and critical audience by the melody of her divinely entrancing voice, for it can not be denied that ordinarily the negro possesses a stronger and more flexible voice than the white, and with cultivation it is natural to suppose that wonderful results may be obtained.

Photograph the Baby.

[Babyhood.]

Apart from the obvious sentimental reason why parents cannot afford to let the days and months slip by without having their little ones photographed, there is a more occult and scientific value in a pictured record of progressive child life. The sun is an unfaltering reporter. The advance in intelligence and in the healthful development which is beauty of the best kind to the eye of science, or the gradual retrogression in either or both, may escape the eye of persons who are in constant association with the subject of the subtle change.

Comparison of the sun-portrait of today with one taken a year or eighteen months ago will reveal the change to the intelligent observer. In some instances the stealthy advance of disease has been announced to those most interested in the victim's welfare by the shock of discerning a new expression in the eye, in noting the altered contour of the face and lines of pain or languor which have been transferred to the sensitive plate. As faithfully it betrays the slight obliquity of vision, habitual stoop, the truth that one shoulder is higher than the other, or that an inclination to stoop is narrowing the chest.

A Convivial Crowd.

[Texas Siftings.]

Two young men who move in the very best of society went on a spree not long since. After they were pretty well under way one of them said, in an inebriated tone of voice:

"Why, you ain't going home already. It's right in the shank of the evening."

"Of course. I'm not goin' home now, but after awhile we won't know each other from a slide of solsleather, so lets say 'good-night' right now, before it's too late."

They embraced.

GRAND

Colonial Exhibition!

IN LONDON, ENGLAND, 1886.

Fifty-four Thousand Feet Reserved for Canada.

First Royal Exhibition Commission since 1862.

THE Colonial and Indian Exhibition to be held in London, England, commencing May 1st, 1886, is intended to be on a scale of great magnitude, having for object to mark an epoch in the relations of all the parts of the British Empire with each other.

In order to give Canada a fitting manifestation to the event a Royal Commission is issued for the holding of this Exhibition, for the first time since 1862, and His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has been appointed President, by Her Majesty.

The very large space of 54,000 square feet has been allotted to the Dominion of Canada by command of the President, His Royal Highness.

This Exhibition is to be purely Colonial and Indian, and no competition from the United Kingdom or from foreign nations will be permitted, the object being to exhibit to the world at large what the Colonies can do.

The greatest opportunity ever offered to Canada is thus afforded to show the distinguished place she occupies, by the progress she has made in Agriculture, in Horticulture, in the Mineral and Fine Arts, in the Manufactures, in Inventions, in the Newest Improvements in Manufacturing Machinery and Implements, in Public Works by Models and Designs, and to an adequate extent, of her vast resources in the Forests, Fisheries, and Mineral wealth, and also in Surveys.

All Societies of all parties and classes are invited to come forward and vie with each other in endeavoring to do this great possible for Canada in her true place as the premier colony of the British Empire, and to establish her proper position before the world.

Agriculture, Arts, Manufactures, and every manufacturer, has interest in seeing it done, and every man of every trade that extends its trade always follows such efforts.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

While the TIMES is always prepared to give publicity to the views of correspondents on any question of interest to the public, provided facts are given, couched in unobjectionable language, we wish it to be understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by the writers thereof.

Nor can we give room to duplicates of letters that have appeared in our contemporaries either in this city or elsewhere in the province. Correspondents, therefore, will save time and trouble in preparing such for THE TIMES, as they will be rejected.

Our space is valuable, and brevity, as far as possible, should be observed in writing on any topic, and on ONE SIDE of the sheet only.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—You're a purchasing Real Estate or insuring your life, see Rand Bros.

—The Thistle Club will meet to-night for its fortnightly "hop." The Queen City band will be in attendance.

—A little boy named Martin, strayed away from the Grand Pacific Hotel today. His friends are anxious to learn of his whereabouts.

—Welch, Rithet & Co., agents for the bark Gerard C. Toby, announce that vessel will sail for Melbourne on or about Tuesday next 13th inst.

—Advices from London, dated the 1st inst., state that the Privy Council would consider the Riel case, in about a fortnight from that date.

—A large black back bear weighing over 200 lbs., and supposed to be about two years old, was shot by an Indian on Tuesday last in Saanich. The carcass was brought into the city and sold to Geo. Vienna, on whose hooks part of the dressed brute now hangs.

—Freight for the following arrived by the Geo. E. Starr to-day: A W Sullivan, A R Johnstone, C Strauss & Co, Carne & Munsie, D McDonald, D McPhadden, E B Carmichael, Hastings S M Co, H Saunders, J Crawford, J Elford, J Cunningham, Jno Hilbert, J Patterson, M Lenz, McDonald Bros, Marvin & T, Neufelder & Ross, Osborne & Co, S H Webb, S Leiser, S Kelly & Son, S J Pitts, Deans & Co, T Earle, Wilson & Co, W R Austin, W W Jones.

—List of letters held for postage: Edward Combes, Sydney, Aust; M Poleito, Nanaimo, B C; T Naylor, Newcastle, W T; M W Davies, Black Diamond, W T; — Whiting, Chief Engineer, H M S Triump, Esquimalt; Mrs M Hartman, W T; Mrs L F Share, Portland, Oregon; Mrs Sillitoe, New Westminster, B C, Wo On Tang, San Francisco, Cals; Mrs F W Foster, Clinton, B C; Miss F Hankenson, Friday Harbor, W T; Kai Kee, Yale, B C; Wm Steinburger, Saanich, V I; Caleb Bishop, Esquimalt, B C; Thos Parker, Metchosin, V I; Thos Tagwell, Sooke, V I; Jas Collins, Melbourne, Aust; Miss Alice Smith, Halifax, N S; Kwong So Wo, Portland, Oregon; Jno F Reilac Portland, Oregon; James Guens (American bark Astella), Melbourne, Aust.

Weather During September, 1885.

There occurred in September last 13 days of alternate rain and sunshine—2 cloudy and wet; 5 foggy; 1 cloudy and dry; 4 alternation of cloud and sunshine, and 5 of sunshine all day. The temperature was as follows: Mean temperature, 55.70; mean maximum, 63.60; minimum, 47.80; highest, 71 on the 3d; lowest, 42 on the 25th. Rainfall—inches, 4—for Sept. '84, 1.66 inches. Rainfall, January to 30th Sept., 1885, 19.47; January to Sept., 1884, 15.03; January to Sept. 1883, 15.40. Crops around Victoria were mostly harvested ere on the 5th Sept., 1885. Rain set in: In 1884, September, rain both here and farther south was more injurious. A fine aftermath has followed the rain of the September just past. Two slight frosts in September, 1884; none in September, 1885.

Exercising Care.

When the Geo. E. Starr touched the dock to-day, she was boarded by the Health Officer and hacked away from the wharf to permit that official an opportunity to carefully inspect the vessel and her passengers. Everything was found satisfactory and she again pulled up to her moorings and her passengers disembarked. The health officers and sanitary committee, here as elsewhere, are acting in the public interest in vigilantly guarding every approach to the city. Both have important duties to perform, and THE TIMES hopes to be able to say that they have successfully accomplished all they undertook to perform.

From the Sealing Ground.

The sealing schooner San Diego, Capt. Cathcart, arrived from Behring's Sea this morning, bringing 1725 skins. The San Diego, it will be remembered, was reported from San Francisco to have been lost, with all on board, and the report was believed in some quarters, as it had been away a very long time. Capt. Cathcart is naturally very much surprised to hear that his friends were beginning to think that he had actually been drowned. Throughout the trip nothing occurred to give even a reasonable foundation for the report. The schooner was becalmed over twenty days about four hundred miles from Victoria.

Officers Introduced.

An inaccuracy crept into our report of those who were introduced to His Excellency on Wednesday forenoon. Mr. John Boyd, president of the St. Andrews and Caledonia societies, was introduced by Mayor Rithet, during the sports at Beacon Hill Park in the afternoon, as was also Mr. Donald McKay, the societies' treasurer, and his son, who were dressed in costume, and Mr. James R. Anell, secretary.

Special Constables.

Two special constables, Messrs. H. A. Whittaker and Wm. Woods, were sworn in this morning by the police Magistrate. This additional strength to the police force was urgently required as there is every prospect that there will be more work than formerly for the force during the coming winter.

Hand Torn.

Mr. Wm. Thompson, of South Saanich, while hauling a boar at the Spanish exhibition yesterday received a severe and painful wound on one hand. One of the animal's tusks tore a long gash in the palm of one hand, which required a doctor's attendance.

LIBERAL OFFER.

VICE-REGAL PARTY.

Probable Movements During their Stay in the Province.

To-morrow the vice-regal party will drive to Goldstream where the cars will be taken to the end of the track. In the evening the banquet in honor of His Excellency will take place in the rooms of the Union Club.

On Sunday the party will attend divine services at Christ Church Cathedral.

On Monday it is understood the party will leave for Chemainus, Nanaimo and the mainland, proceeding eastward by the Canadian Pacific railway. A halt of one day will be made in Winnipeg.

Work on construction on the C. P. R. will not be sufficiently advanced to enable His Excellency to drive the last spike; rails are now laid, however as far as Angus (formerly Farwell) and trains will be running to that point about the 20th inst. From this point His Excellency will take train for Ottawa where he expects to arrive about the 26th inst.

—This afternoon His Worship Mayor Rithet, accompanied by R. Dunsmuir, Esq., M. P. P., drove His Excellency and Lieut.-Governor Cornwall, Lord Melgund and Hon. Mr. Anson around the city. They visited several of the manufacturing establishments, the fire department, the new theatre, and other points of interest.

Saturday's programme embraces a visit to the dry dock, the Admiral and the naval yard. The vice-regal party will partake of luncheon with the Admiral during the afternoon.

ENTERPRISE-RITHET COLLISION

The Minister of Marine Approves the Decision of the Investigating Committee.

An Ottawa despatch announces that the agent of the Department of Marine having reported with reference to the enquiry into the collision which occurred on the 28th of July off Cadboro point, Vancouver Island, resulting in the loss of two lives and the wrecking of the steamer Enterprise, the Minister of Marine has approved of the decision of the court in finding the master of the Rithet, Captain Ashberry Insley, guilty of great neglect of duty, and of the recommendation that his certificate as master be cancelled for twelve months from the date of the accident. This will necessitate the erring captain undergoing another examination before his certificate can be renewed. With reference to Captain Budlis, of the steamer Enterprise, the Minister of Marine regrets to find from the evidence adduced that he made no effort to return to his vessel and passengers after getting upon the for'deck of the Rithet, although there seemed to be ample time and means to do so. While expressing such regret he does not, however, hold the captain responsible for the unfortunate accident and has directed that his certificate be returned.

THE TERMINAL FACILITIES.

Mr. Van Horne Leaving for the Pacific Coast.

The Montreal Gazette announces that General Manager Van Horne, of the Canadian Pacific, will shortly visit the western terminus of the road, at Coal Harbor, or Vancouver, as it is to be hereafter known, to arrange for the commencement of the necessary works and buildings. They will include a round house, which will be one of the largest on the line, warehouses, buildings for stores, freight and passenger depots, repair and car shops, and offices for the staff. Some delay has been caused in the inauguration of these works by disagreement with property owners, but they have now been arranged, and active operations will be at once commenced, so that on the opening of the road for traffic, everything will be in readiness to accommodate it. He will leave Montreal about the time the rails are to be connected, and continue his journey westward.

Mrs. Hampson.

Last evening the Theatre Comique was again comfortably filled to hear this remarkable woman. Her subject was Psalm xxvii., 8, "When thou saidst, seek ye my face; my heart said unto thee, thy face Lord will I seek." From these words she spoke for an hour or more, and during all the time her hearers seemed to be spell bound by her earnestness and eloquence. Grand truths rolled from her lips, clothed in the most beautiful language. It is impossible to listen to her without being impressed with her down right earnestness; the words come direct from her heart and go direct to yours. It has been our good fortune to hear many of the principal pulpit orators of the day, but few, if any of them, exceed her in wealth of illustration and beauty of dictation. Do the good people of Victoria, especially our business men and professional men, know that they are missing a grand opportunity of hearing one of the most eloquent of her sex, by remaining away from the Theatre Comique this week. Mrs. Hampson will speak again this evening. All are welcome.

THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

Wonderful Growth of the Order During the Past Few Years.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 7.—The General Assembly of the Knights of Labor resumed business this morning. It is expected that the session will last nearly two weeks. The report of the General Secretary and Treasurer showed a rapid growth of the order during the past year; that the organization had been firmly planted in England and Belgium, and that there had been a steady increase in the number of Assemblies in the Southern States. It recommended that workmen should only work eight hours, regardless of wages paid. The question of wages would right itself in a few months, in the necessary employment of surplus workmen, in consequence shortening the hours of labor. The increase in membership during the year was 75 per cent.

GROWTH OF THE ORDER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The rapid growth of the Knights of Labor in the United States and Canada is brought prominently into notice by published reports of the general assembly, now convening at Hamilton, Ont., and by the recent success of the Knights in electing the mayor of Newark, Conn., against formidable opposition. The Canada convention was opened with an address from General Master Workman Powderly, in which he claimed 4000 assemblies of Knights, embracing 200,000 members, nearly all the growth of the past seven years. He said that in 1878 the order was unknown to the world, and belonged to a few. To-day it is known and respected everywhere, and belongs to every man and woman who toils for a livelihood, and every slave of the earth who irks for freedom from the tyranny of aggregated capital. The use of dynamite and violence was denounced, the holding of public lands by aliens denounced as wrong, the introduction of cheap foreign labor stigmatized as unAmerican and unpatriotic, and should be resisted. Minister Phelps is declared to have spoken falsely when he announced abroad that there was employment and prosperity in America for all who desire to come. The success of the Knights at the Connecticut ballot-box is received in the trades union circles here with much satisfaction, and there will be a celebration of the event. It is hinted that the Knights in this city may quietly take a hand in the coming election for aldermen and members of the legislature, on their own account.

Knights of Labor.

The Knights of Labor will assemble tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at Frank Campbell's corner, where a torch light procession will be formed. Headed by the band the assemblage will proceed to the square at the electric light mast, Blanchard street, near Chatham, where addresses appropriate to the occasion will be delivered, and resolutions passed to be presented to His Excellency in reference to the Chinese and other grievances which the Knights are seeking to redress. All such as are in sympathy with the movement are invited to be present.

Many forget that the hair and scalp need cleansing as well as the hands and feet. Extensive use of Ayer's Hair Vigor has proven that it is the best cleansing agent for the hair—that it prevents as well as removes dandruff, cools and soothes the scalp, and stimulates the hair to renewed growth and beauty.
